

Garden variety

Steven Tabor
2018 (c)

Garden variety

Gardens come in all shapes and sizes. The changing shapes, composition and colors of a garden illustrates the passage of time and the delicate evolution of beauty.

This series weaves together images from 2017 and 2018 taken in our garden, in the tulip fields of Lisse, in the Keukenhof, in the Clingendaal Japanese garden, in the dunes of Noordwijk and in the Hoorsten garden of Wassenaar. These are very different gardens, but all enticing in their own way.

Some may enjoy one type of garden over another, or one bloom more than the next. But there is no escaping the fact that it is the great variety of life manifest in the many different kinds of gardens that illustrates that we are all beautiful in our own way.

Hanging buds 1

Hanging buds 2

Hanging buds 4

Spring bloom and Potted plants

Lilac hills

Tulip fields 1

Tulip fields 2

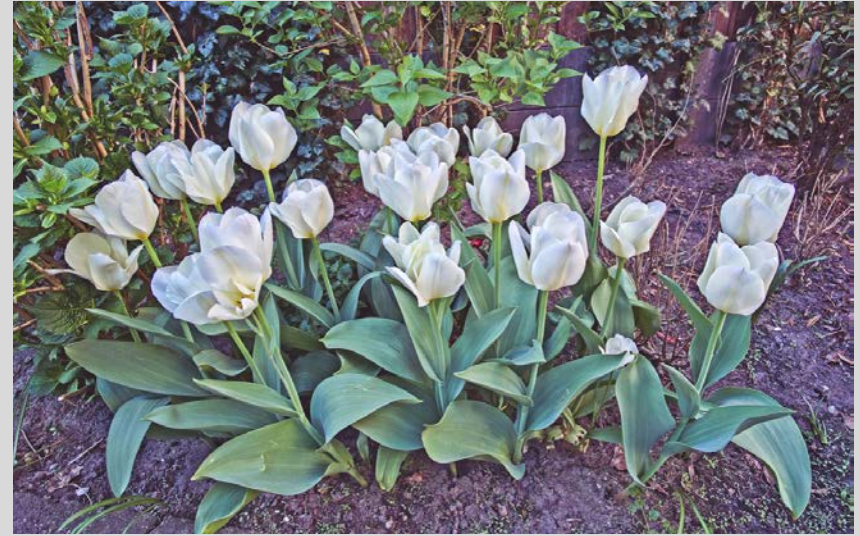

Tulip fields 3

Tulip fields 4

Tulip field and garden tulips

Tulip bike

Anneke in the tulips

Fall in the forest

Bird feeder

still bright

